COURSE DESCRIPTION

To ensure a coordinated approach to addressing human trafficking in Eastern Iowa and Western Illinois, this conference will educate those involved about their roles and responsibilities in identifying and responding to victims, and investigating and prosecuting traffickers. Nebraska Human Trafficking Task Force members will use their integrated approach and case studies to equip attendees to pursue a multi-disciplinary approach to realizing, recognizing and responding to human trafficking in their local communities. Specific roles and responsibilities to be covered include law enforcement, victim advocates, forensic nurses, attorneys, judges, child welfare workers, medical personnel, and victim service providers. Massachusetts General Hospital representatives will discuss various health issues for survivors of human trafficking, to include complex trauma, and the role of healthcare providers in identifying, screening and treating survivors. Attendees will have the opportunity at the close of the conference to discuss and brainstorm next steps to address human trafficking specific to their communities.
